ROOSEVELT'S CABIN

Occupied by Him When Cowboy in the Wilds of Dakota.

EXHIBITED AT PORTLAND FAIR

Dakota Will Have One of the Finest Exhibits at the Lewis and Clark Fair, But It is Expected That Roosevelt's Cabin Will Be the Attraction.

The log cabin in which President Roosevelt lived for three years while he was a rancher has been placed in the agricultural building at the Lewis and Clark exposition as a part of the state of North Dakota's exhibit. The cabin was taken apart and the pieces numbered, so that it could be put together again exactly as it was when the president lived in it as a cowboy. It stands near the south wall of the agricultural building.

It was in 1883 that Mr. Roosevelt went to North Dakota and purchased the Maltese Cross ranch, a place on the Little Missouri river eight miles south of the town of Melora. On taking possession Mr. Roosevelt changed the name to Chimney Butte, on account of a chimney-shaped butte a short distance away. The rough cabin which he bought with the ranch was the future president's only home for nearly three years, and in it he lived the life of the cowboy.

In the cabin there will be exhibited also a number of interesting mementoes of the president's life at the period. An old straw hat, which Mr. Roosevelt wore when he went to the ranch, but which was discarded shortly afterward as unsuitable to the kind of life he must lead, was found in an old sack in a corner of the cabin, and will be shown to visitors at the western world's fair. Other relics include the president's old gun, his "chaps" boots and the war bag in which he stored these articles when he gave up his cowboy life.

While the Roosevelt cabin will probably prove the most popular feature of its participation, North Dakota will have a most interesting display at the fair. The citizens of that state are proud of its resources, and when the legislature refused to appropriate money for representation at the Lewis and Clark exposition, they raised the required money by private subscription, under a plan proposed by Governor E. Y. Sarles.

North Dakota being an agricultural state has placed its entire exhibit in the big agricultural building at the exposition, where wall space 36 feet wide by 90 long is occupied. In this space an exhibit of grains and grasses and other farm products has been installed, with the view of showing to the world the greatness of the state as a farming country. Commissioner W. N. Steel of Bismarck is in Portland, superintending the installation of the exhibits, which are practically completed.

COUNTY OUT OF DEBT.

Polk County is Now on a Cash Basis and Built Court House.

The following taken from the Polk County Observer, shows what a business administration will do for a county:

Polk county is out of debt. County Treasurer Beezley has issued a call for all outstanding warrants, and there will be a small cash balance in the treasury after these warrants are paid. Five years ago when Judge Sibley and Commissioner Teal were elected to office the county was in debt to the amount of $116,000. Of this sum, $50,000 represented the cost of the new court house and $60,000 was old indebtedness. Before any taxes came into the treasury the indebtedness reached $130,000, the highest point in the history of the county.

The county court at once set about to pay this indebtedness and at the end of their four years' term had reduced the amount to $20,000. During these four years the interests of the county were not neglected and more permanent improvements were made than ever before. The court carried on the business of the county as usual and in addition, improved the roads, built bridges, and overlooked no important public need."

County indebtedness is often incurred and increased by the purchasing of many unnecessary supplies, and there is not a county in the state but by a judicious and economical administration, can wipe out its indebtedness in a short time. The same rule applies to the management of city affairs.

COUNTY COURT.

The clerk was instructed to write to Supervisor Jas. Gallagher of road district No. 13 in the matter of $100 damages asked by O. A. Cole for building road through his land; that if the damages were paid they would have to come out of the funds of that road district.

In the matter of the petition of C. H. Page for refunding $62, taxes claimed to have been paid, it was unanimously denied.

Report of the viewers petitioned for by John R. Wherry and others at Elsie was read a second time and laid over to the regular term.

It was decided to allow the Astoria Crushed Rock Company not to exceed $25 for repairing the road for about four blocks leading to the Youngs bay bridge.

The road master was instructed to repair road district No. 77 in the vicinity of the Hustler place and remove the slide.

All the Important Shipping News and Water Front Items at Astoria and Vicinity Occuring During the Past Twenty-four Hours.

The steamship Oregon sails tomorrow morning at 4 o'clock. This will be the last visit of the Oregon to Astoria under existing conditions and after discharging at San Francisco she will proceed to Seattle to load passengers and freight for Nome. The deck and steward crews will be transferred to steamship Costa Rica, which has been engaged to cover the route until alternations and improvements on the steamship St. Paul are completed. The St. Paul will probably relieve the Costa Rica after the completion of one round trip, as the intention is to have her ready for sea by the middle of this month. Possibly the Costa Rica may be placed on the route also with the increase of traffic, it being understood that the company has entertained such intention.

Restraining Order Granted.

A suit was filed in the circuit court yesterday by Keating & Flood, against Annie Abbott, an actress at the Unique theater. The complaint alleges that plaintiffs conduct theaters in various cities and made a contract with the defendant to present "The Original Georgia Magnet" at the Baker theater at Portland, but she failed and refused to live up to her contract, and agreed to present the play at the Unique theater of Astoria, beginning on May 9, and continuing until May 14. A restraining order was asked restraining Annie Abbott from presenting the play at the Unique, and the order was granted, so Annie will not appear at the Unique in that play.
